Think you have what it takes to work with a SWAT team and provide out-of-hospital care in a tactical environment? The austere environment of a tactical law enforcement mission requires special judgement and skills not caught in standard EMS courses or medical school. Our Tactical Emergency Medicine (TEMS) program is an intense classroom and physically challenging training program designed to provide the medical provider with valuable advanced combat medical skills combined with intense tactical training and the ability to use both in extreme environments.

Topics include:

- Role of the tactical medicine provider
- Wound management
- Management of blast injuries
- Operational casualty care/tactical casualty care
- Medical aspects of clandestine drug labs
- Gear selection/improvised gear
- Advanced airway management in the tactical environment
- Medical threat assessment and barricade medicine
- Distraction devices and less lethal weapons
- Dynamic clearing techniques and team movement
- Wound ballistics
- Crush injury and compartment syndrome
- Firearm use for a medic
