About Healthy Congregations...

Healthy Congregations is a set of six workshops designed to help pastors and leaders to promote healthy functioning that congregations might fulfill God's mission. The six workshops include:

- Creating Healthy Congregations
- Responding to Anxiety and Change
- Leadership in Healthy Congregations
- Relationships in Healthy Congregations
- Developing Generous People
- The Spiritual Care of Healthy Congregations

To date, Healthy Congregations has been used in more than 8,000 congregations across 24 denominations. The materials for the workshops were developed by the Rev. Dr. Peter Steinke, a widely respected consultant and expert in the area of congregational and family systems.

This training is for those who desire to serve as facilitators within their congregations, communities, and on a presbytery-wide basis. For the past six years, our General Presbyter has worked with Pete Steinke in a variety of settings: training, resourcing, and equipping leaders and congregations as a Healthy Congregations Facilitator-Trainer, Bridgebuilder in times of conflict, and a coach to leaders.

The Marks of a Healthy Congregation

1. Created and sustained by vital, authentic worship.
2. Enriched, not imprisoned to the past.
3. Cares for the "collective soul" of the congregation as well as individual souls.
4. Committed to a shared vision.
5. Committed to an effective discipling process.
6. Healthy leadership.
7. Committed to growth, realizing that growth brings change.
8. Able to face and deal constructively with conflict.
9. Active in community.
10. Enjoys "adult/adult" relationship with denomination.
11. Places high priority on biblical literacy.
12. Committed to thinking globally while acting locally.
13. A wise steward of resources.
14. Manifests a healthy sense of humor.
