

ATTN: High School Students

“The SAT or ACT” ... Which is right for you?

The majority of colleges and universities accept either the SAT or the ACT. But the two tests are quite different. Your testing strengths may be better suited for the style and format of one test over the other. In lieu of a crystal ball we created the Princeton Review Assessment (PRA), a test designed to help you determine on which examine you'd score higher. You will receive a detailed score report that will give you a side-by-side comparison of your projected test scores on the SAT and ACT. In the strategy session you will learn basic test taking techniques to raise your score on both the SAT and ACT, and an explanation of standardized testing and the college admissions process.

There is no cost to participate.
