

Lifespan

Providence, Rhode Island- Rhode Island Hospital seeks an experienced physician leader for the role of Senior Vice President, Chief Medical Officer to lead in its pursuit of delivering exceptional, high quality, cost efficient patient care and to champion the advancement of medical science and education.

Rhode Island Hospital is the flagship hospital of Lifespan, a not for profit health care system. The organization is the state's largest hospital and designated level 1 trauma center for southeastern New England. As the principal teaching hospital for Warren Alpert Medical School of Brown University, Rhode Island Hospital is one the nation's finest academic medical centers committed to delivering cutting edge treatment and excellent outcomes.

The CMO, in collaboration with the leadership team at Rhode Island Hospital and Lifespan, will be responsible for setting and implementing a culture of excellence in the delivery of clinical services. Working with administration, clinical chairs and chiefs, clinical full-time faculty, private practice physicians, nursing leadership and hospital staff, the CMO will establish the overall direction and priorities for Rhode Island Hospital in enhancing the overall quality, safety, effectiveness and efficiency of healthcare delivery. The CMO will play a central role in the alignment and integration strategies of the overall clinical enterprise and serve as a physician voice in providing strategic direction for the hospital on issues related to medical staff growth, educational program structure, clinical program development and broader academic medical center priorities.

The CMO position requires strong executive leadership, effective administrative skills and an enduring commitment to the tripartite mission of an academic medical center. The successful candidate will be a deeply experienced, charismatic physician, board certified in a medical or surgical specialty and eligible for licensure in Rhode Island; an advanced healthcare management degree is desirable as well as knowledge and facility with EMR/CPOE. He/she will have a substantial record of accomplishment of success as a practitioner and leadership achievement in an academic medical center.
