Free Trial Membership Application

(Any ALJ not previously a member, until annual dues renewal on or before June 1st)

The Federal Administrative Law Judge Conference (FALJC) is the largest organization that represents and serves all administrative law judges throughout the Federal government. Our mission is to further the public interest by improving the administrative process; advance the professional standing, education and welfare of the ALJs employed by the U.S. government; and to encourage cordial relations among the members of the organization and with the judiciary, government agencies, and public and private organizations concerned with the administrative law process. FALJC holds monthly meetings and luncheons with speakers on legal and related issues, and we conduct an annual 3-day educational seminar at a scenic location each September.

FALJC has members from almost all agencies employing ALJs. We would like to expand our membership and participation, and include any interested member (wherever located) in our monthly Executive Committee meetings by telephone conference. We welcome the chance to listen to new members and to hear their suggestions on how we can better pursue their professional interests as members of the federal administrative judiciary.

If you would like a free trial membership, please complete and return the following information:
