Smart Strategies for EEOC Charge Handling

Mona M. Stone, Counsel
Greenburg Traurig, LLP (Phoenix)

Mona Stone is Counsel, Labor & Employment Litigation, for the firm of Greenburg Traurig, LLP, where she represents both public and private entities throughout the country, ranging from small businesses to multibillion-dollar companies.

Serving as corporate in-house counsel early in her career exposed Mona to a vast array of business legal issues. Drawing on that experience, her broad litigation and ADR skills have resulted in the resolution of major disputes. She has more than 14 years of experience managing general independent caseload for global companies where she strategically partners with clients to deliver efficient claims handling to advance business goals.

Mona has directed critical internal and external client investigations and communicated findings to executive management teams in response to employee grievances and formal charges, including intellectual property and data privacy issues. She advises employers with respect to lawful background checks, risks and rewards of social media, and emerging technology issues, proactive risk management, regulatory and compliance issues, licensing, and e-discovery. She handles labor disputes and represents corporate and individual clients and has a successful defense track record at administrative hearings, arbitrations, mediations and trial.

Mona is the published author of 4 books and is a frequent speaker, having written and presented on many topics involving best practices for employers, contract/policy drafting and enforcement, legal career management topics, and diversity issues.
