To whom it may concern,

I am very pleased to recommend Boris Kushnir and Architectural Sourcing, Inc. (ASI), to any company that would like to grow financially and develop a highly reputable and recognizable image in the construction industry. Legit Painting has been in business 20 years and maintains a reputation high quality and excellent performance on both commercial and residential projects.

Like mid-size company, we have been struggling with the present conditions in the market. Because of the challenge getting new jobs, worrying about losing our most valuable asset, our dedicated labor force and being anxious to grow we decided to consider Boris's offer.

In March of 2012, Boris called and informed me about projects that were in the negotiation stages. One was the Container Store project in the city of El Segundo, which was ultimately awarded to us. Boris provided us professionally presented details of the takeoff, and we were able to confirm the scope of work and other details. After receipt of pre-qualification form and the contract that included 56 pages we were scared to continue with the project and considered getting our attorney involved. Even with our extensive experience on many types of projects, the TCS project had a job and paperwork requirements that we have never experienced before. Boris convinced me to rely on his expertise and accept the contract. Boris also assured that in case of any problems he would take care on it.

From the beginning of the project, we had a pleasant professional experience with the coordination the project responsibilities by just following Boris's instructions. Boris remained involved with the project details as: Confirming details before project award, contract negotiations, labor force scheduling, accounting, including change orders and pay requests. After completion of approximately 40% of the exterior painting, the GC requested that we stop our work due to the use of the wrong painting materials. It was a very disturbing and in my mind a catastrophic point in the project. Boris submitted a rebuttal to the general contractor that made me concerned that he will terminate our contract based on requirements clearly stipulated under the terms of a contract. After my discussions with Boris and his recommendation, to follow the terms and conditions in our contract I decided I had no choice but to continue. After six days of a heavy back and forth rebuttal with GC, I received a call from the GS with an offer to pay an additional $18,000 for their admitted mistake from their interpretation of the plans and specifications plus other change orders.

Unless you were involved in our first project working with Boris, it would be impossible to explain the joy in working with him. In final, I can say "Just do what Boris asks you to do and be professional and respectful". My partner and I personally say thank you to Boris and hope for the successful growth of his company. We are looking forward to continuing our relationship with ASI on many more projects and are considering transferring all our projects to ASI for estimating, bidding and project coordination services.
