

“Boo’s and Don’ts of Halloween” ~ Movie/TV Show Trailers

“An ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure.” Benjamin Franklin

This time of year in the US we see an increase in the advertising of movies, books, events, etc., that are horror related due to the upcoming celebration of Halloween on October 31st. It is a highly participated holiday here with kids trick or treating, parties for all ages, haunted houses, mazes, etc., but none of this is new news. What prompted me to write this article is the increasing amount of advertising on TV for movies and TV shows that anyone of any age can view, and these advertisements, movie trailers, are containing shockingly real and extremely dangerous methods of bringing in dark entities but in a game-like fashion. And this is in people’s homes, projecting these energies to those watching. Also, the romanticism of the dark has also increased. Yes, even in the fun of just wanting a good scare, people will do many things that they are unaware of that can place themselves and unsuspecting people in a very real and potential dangerous situation. Regardless of your upbringing and belief systems, energy is energy. It impacts every single one of us, and each of us are unique and have our own needs; however, we no longer have the luxury of being complacent and we should not tolerate any level of bullying—these movies and television shows are teaching people how to be bullies and how to allow in these low-lying spirits into your energy field, and also into your home. Whether film makers, TV producers, etc., are aware of it or not, it is happening. Period. Whether you want to call these entities dark entities, the dark team, dark force entities, Satan, demons, the devil, it doesn’t matter. They are beings that are not focused on the light, and actually, they want and need to take your energy so they can survive! They know exactly what they are doing, and they are taking advantage of our consciousness level. My intention in this article to bring awareness about this subject and that everyone talk about it. It’s like finding out about a new level of bully in town and saying, “Hey, I now know who you are, what you are up to, and you’re not welcome here. Go back to where you came from.”

Whether it is the time of year where Halloween is celebrated or not, people are fascinated with the occult year round, and because of this interest, people are often experimenting or putting themselves into situations that are extremely dangerous; the results of these situations impact not only themselves, but brings drama and trauma into their homes, their home life as well, endangering their family members, others they have close relationships with, and their work. Even the people you see on TV going into haunted spaces to investigate and to prove the existence of spirits here on Earth don’t realize the ramifications of what they are doing.

Specifically, I'd like to address the increased promotion of movies and TV programs that contain scenes where they invoke beings in other realms as if it's a harmless game. When I saw a commercial movie trailer with a specific scene playing on television, I was completely floored! This is like giving a young child a loaded gun to play with or putting a child behind the wheel of a car with no training whatsoever. It sets up opportunities for bullying activities from other realms that most would be shocked to learn about.

What most don’t know is that they, too, become a victim of these bullying events. These lower negative energies can make one feel angry and include self-destructive emotions, including suicide; if you’re entertaining these beings, you need to know that you can't pick and choose what comes with it. It's an energy signature that attracts to it "like energies" (the Universal Law of Attraction). It is important that the dangers of this “game playing” be communicated to everyone, and we need to be clear of our own discomfort about the topic and our own fears, but just like our own discomfort about talking to our teens about sex or drug or alcohol use, or even the dangers and responsibility of driving a car, we must take responsibility for sharing the truth about the dangers related to what many consider “harmless play” or harmless entertainment.

As parents we know that we cannot control every moment and everything that our child is exposed to because we are simply not with them at every moment. This is why it is extremely important to be even a little knowledgeable about this subject so that you can at least explain that there are risks and consequences when you even just dabble in this field. Since there is so much attention paid to encouraging people to try these games and to watch these movies, we must counter this action with an action that is light-based: supply the truth that there are energies that are dark. We cannot afford to sweep this under the rug any longer. I have a detailed description I recorded for free on my web site you can listen to, and I highly recommend it.

Kids of all ages are also attracted to séances. As we know, energy always exists and can never be destroyed. It can be transformed, however, and if someone has died, they have a choice to stay in the realms “in between”, or they may not know they’ve died, or they can go into the light and continue with the next chapter in their spiritual journey. When people die and stay Earthbound, they remain in the lower emotions they were experiencing here on earth, and it usually includes deep sadness (depression, suicidal tendencies) and anger. It is very common that when these séances are attended, if you have something in common emotionally with beings attracted to this event, they will attach to you, so your own feelings will become more intense or take over your life. You don’t even know it’s happening, but they are living their life through you. It is extremely distracting from your goals and happiness, but it’s also that they are feeding off your negative emotions and energy field. This is what psychic leaching and psychic bullying is all about. They bully you and you, too, can become the bully.

The bottom line is those who have died do not belong on Earth any longer, as this is a place of spiritual growth for those in physical form. We came here under the false idea that we are separate from Mother/Father God, and in our lives with our relationships, experiences, and challenges, we have the opportunity to rise about our fears and live a life of freedom: victory consciousness, no longer in poverty consciousness, victim consciousness, conditional love, etc. Again, participating in séances is an example of a game where we’re “calling out” to these beings, both the dark forces and those not crossed over into the light after death. Even so-called experts in this field conducting these events must be very careful. I would not ever recommend this because the Astral Plane where these beings dwell is a very dangerous place. So now knowing this, why would you want to open this door? Take time to really ask yourself, “What emotion am I feeding or what emotional wound is needing my attention? Can I nurture that in another manner?” Because each of our intention and motivation is what we attract into our experience, you have NO idea what the person sitting next to you is all about even if you think you know. Everyone has trauma in their past, and you don’t know where they are in their heart as it relates to hate, anger, etc. All of this is an energy signature that calls in matching energy. It’s the Law. It’s the science of spirituality.

As an example of the one of the games, there is one movie trailer that is aired as a commercial when any one of any age can witness this game and copy it for themselves. The scene is showing some kids in a bathroom “playing a game” of speaking into a mirror, chanting commands of “Bloody Mary”. For those who don’t know any better, it may just look like another scary movie, which I’ll address in a moment.

Do NOT underestimate the power of this very real and extremely dangerous game. I know of an experience where 11-year-old girl that on her annual vacation one summer out of state where she met a new bunch of kids also vacationing in this condo complex; it’s a typical place for summer family vacation. Well, unknowingly to any of the adults, the kids literally dragged this already psychically-sensitive young girl (even under her strict protest) into the bathroom for that “game,” and sure enough, a being from the Astral Plane (someone who died and did not go into the light) attached to the 11-year-old girl, following back home to the state where she lives. It wasn’t shared with her parents right away, but thank goodness she did tell her mother shortly after she got home because of the extreme fear and awareness of this being. When you’re 11, you don’t care about the fact it’s a lonely soul who needs help. The family knew someone who could cross over this lost soul who needed help, and she did go into the light. However, this young girl has always been sensitive to energies that others couldn’t see, so she grew up just always being in fear, never finding her own strength inside, so this entity attachment situation was extremely traumatic for her and was something she dealt with for years, as the fear of feeling others around her has remained with her into her early 20’s. This doesn’t just impact the child; this impacts the entire family. When these situations occur, it also impacts your ability to rest as you keep being awakened and or have nightmares. Not being able to rest well and feel healthy and strong, compromises one’s natural shield of protection, which perpetuates the “psychic attacks”. This impacts one’s life socially and professionally, too, since you’re not strong and able to be out in public where many are feeling so much stress with today’s intense challenges. The good news and update to this story is she’s doing much better and has used her experiences to help others as a mentor!

Games such as this “Bloody Mary”, séances, going into cemeteries to play games of reaching out to dead people, Ouija boards, and anything done out of pure curiosity is simply playing with fire, as these beings are searching for people looking for them. They don’t care that you meant only fun. They don’t care about you AT ALL. They want your energy.

Movies, TV shows, music, books, also have energies placed within them that impact our auric field, which can instigate or fuel fears, anger, etc.. Watching a movie that has particular scenes that are dark, or low vibrations of energy, will contain psychic energies most can’t see. It can look like a charcoal-colored smoke billowing out from the screen. It will also impact on your energy field, and you can leave that movie, reading a book, or listening to music feeling anxious, tired, fearful, stressful, depressed, agitated, angry, wanting to pick a fight, etc. This can all chip away at your auric field, your natural protection, and your life can change dramatically, including beings attaching to you or someone you are close to. It can fuel people’s fears and cause them to make decisions that are fear-based. For example, a young person went into a cemetery to play a game of contacting the deceased, and because of his own lack of self-love and self-respect and interest in the occult and power, he attracted some very powerful beings (demonic in this case) that he enjoyed interacting with. They showed him how they could work with him, and he loved it. Not only did he enjoy the destructive acts he was doing, bullying, too, he was using it to manipulate those close to him and enjoying doing some very dangerous things. People’s lives have been drastically touched by these incidents that I cannot go into here in this article. Mostly, when people have no other idea of what got to this point in their lives, then they learn the truth of how they got into this situation in the first place. This is a side of bullying that most don’t know about and is a huge basis of many crimes: human fear with non-human dysfunctional relationships. These relationships we form here with the other realms are JUST as real as any dysfunctional relationship that occurs in the earthly realms. As with any dysfunctional relationship, though, we’re not always ready to admit it exists, let alone address the situation.

As I mention in other articles I’ve written, these beings are also attracted to our light, so it’s not always a result of our doing something to attract entities, but this article is about the games and ideas shown in the various media that are extremely dangerous.

It is extremely important to talk about these ads and movies, books, music, and be sure to warn people of the long-lasting effects that happen. With kids and teens, they seem to want to do exactly what we tell them not to, so it is very important to let them know that it’s great to want to go out and celebrate Halloween, but be sure you know what’s going on at the party and don’t participate in these types of games. Encourage the kids to dress up in something that they are very interested in that’s fun or is in alignment with what they like best about themselves. I now encourage my own teens and family members to stay away from the costumes that are demonic, vampiric, etc., and I don’t mind telling you that I used to be “the house to go to” on Halloween, complete with a fake cemetery, headstones that read “Died from Eating Spinach,” the whole lights and music thing, a fog machine.

Halloween can be fun, but before you see any movies for yourself, read books, etc., do the research and understand completely what you are about to engage in and guide your children to wear costumes that are not fear-based or dark-energy characters. Take that moment right there when you see a TV commercial to talk about the movie or show, and how this is being brought into our homes. Incidents of haunting are increasing, so we need to become informed regarding prevention. Especially, please share this information and engage in conversation about these games.

By the way, if you haven't seen it yet, watch the movie THOR, and watch it for the small scene after the credits. This is a GREAT example of what I mean that energy can never be destroyed and how these beings can and do work through people, interacting easily with us here on the Earth Plane. The movie AVENGERS follows this thread of the story and how these beings work through a group of people to do their work for them, and they awaken to find out how they were under their influence, not knowing until it was too late. They weren't aware because they couldn't tell that they were really them self. That's part of the subtly, and how it all works. Trust me. I know from experience. I worked with a 17-year old young man who would not believe he had an attachment at all; the other teens knew and helped me speak to him about it—I'll call him T.J. T.J. slowly became angry all of the time, sad, depressed, anxious, and exhibited behaviors that were not typical of his normal light-heartedness and humor. Well, what happened was there was a 15-year-old boy who died in a car wreck many years ago that did not cross over into the light. I'll call him Josh. And what happened to Josh? One night Josh's father was drinking too much and had a fight with Josh, punching in the face. Josh left the house extremely angry at his father and ended up in a fatal car crash. Deep in shock and anger at his own death, Josh wanted to be with kids of his own age and found the near-by high school where he found this teen, TJ, so he became attached to TJ. I saw the deceased young man, Josh, as real as you would see any human being walking around. He was asking me a million, but because I am a parent myself, he would get angry at times and not listen to me. He said he would only listen to TJ. After several meetings, TJ finally understood what was going on and spoke to Josh, teaching him what he learned about life and that he didn't want these dark feelings any longer, and that Josh, too, could move into the light where he belongs, etc. Josh ended up listening to TJ, and it was a most amazing moment for all of us to witness. As a result of the entity clearing, TJ's awareness of feeling lighter was immediate. He was taken back at how much he had no idea it wasn't really him because he couldn't tell when it was his feelings or that of Josh. This is another reason why it is SO important for each of us to truly know ourselves, what our intentions are, and what is motivating our action at any moment: “(Wo)Man, Know Thyself.”

The reason I'm explaining all of this is because we don't realize how raw we all are and also our kids and teens. We blow off so much attributing it to kids just being teens or whatever we are used to attributing fueled emotions to, including hormones. We're not really listening or talking to our own family members like we should, and this is the key to a peaceful life. We blame, judge, criticize our spouses, our parents, and in some household our children, not to mention how we look at treat ourselves and our bodies. This is all part of the dark energy signature. These movies and tv shows are playing in our homes, adding this extremely dark energy into our personal fields.

This article is being prompted by the time of year, yes, but please understand that this article is about a very real and dangerous topic that is experienced by many year round and often times has deep impact on one's life and their family life as well. Regardless of your belief systems, if you've experienced bullying from the other realms, you quickly become a believer and wish you knew about this topic and how to manage spiritual events like this with simple awareness of prevention. Often the victims are those most vulnerable, children or the weak or sickly, or anyone who is emotionally challenged.

The truth is Mother/Father God is love, and where there is love, there is no fear. Even the smallest flame of a match can light up the darkest room! We've been taught to be powerless and now is the time to recognize that WE are more powerful, and we are not to be bullied by any negatively-intended being ever and in any realm! Please help spread the word about these dangerous movies, shows, games, etc. We need to have our homes filled with love, light, and create a safe and nurturing place to recharge our batteries, plugging in to “source energy”! Please don't underestimate what is going on about the truth behind the energies that are all around us 24 hours a day, and how these energies impact our daily life. These dark beings count on us to keep their secrets by NOT talking about this.

For these reasons I have written this article. It is my intention to bring awareness and to support healthy spiritual hygiene for all.

"Have no fellowship with the unfruitful works of darkness, but rather expose them."
