Step By Step for Inclusive Schools 2013-2014 School Year

The Step by Step for Inclusive Schools provides training for K-12 sites and is designed to address four broad categories related to inclusive education; systems issues, instructional quality, staffing, and models of support and collaboration. This initiative is for all students.

Participation in this project with Stetson & Associates, Inc. will include a two-day training for campus teams from each participating school, follow-up technical assistance to each school, and a bank of resources to be used by teams to implement quality practices for students with disabilities. Team members should be site staff who can effectively communicate the message of training content to faculty members and provide leadership to their school regarding effective practices for instructional deliver, staffing and scheduling learned throughout the training sessions.

The ideal team is composed of a site administrator (principal, and 4 additional members including general education teachers, special education teacher and instructional aide. Inclusion of related service provider is optional. This initiative is for all students. Site teams will be responsible for the implementation of learned practices incrementally throughout the 2013-2014 school year.

A limited number of schools (40) will be selected to participate in this initiative this year. School leaders and staff must be willing to fully commit to two full day team training dates listed below.
