Game Changers in Environmental Education
Redefining the Landscape in Ontario
Panel Presentation

Thursday, April 11, 2013, 5:30 - 8:00 p.m.

At home, school, work, and in our communities, game changers are redefining the way we learn about and address environmental issues.

Join Environmental Education Ontario (EEON) for a panel presentation followed by a knowledge building session on Thursday, April 11th from 5:30 – 8:00 pm.

HOME – What environmental initiatives are helping people conserve energy in their own homes?

SCHOOL – Are EcoSchools able to make and sustain partnerships with organizations in the community that can further the goal of educating new generations in environmental education?

WORK – How are companies and organizations adopting sustainable business practices and how is it affecting their triple bottom line?

COMMUNITIES – What are neighbourhoods and communities doing to reduce their ecological footprint?

Guest speakers include:

Bob Willard: author of The NEW Sustainability Advantage

Pam Miller: TDSB EcoSchools Coordinator

Sonya Meek: Sustainable Neighbourhoods Retrofit Action Plan Program (SNAP)

Michael Marchant: Manager-CDM Technical Services, Toronto Hydro

Attendees will participate in a collaborative break out session to answer:

How can these game changing strategies be shared and adapted for communities across Ontario?

When: Thursday, April 11, 2013

Time: 5:30 – 8:00pm (Mix and Mingle from 5:30-6:00 pm)

Where: Ontario Institute for Studies in Education (OISE), 252 Bloor St. West , Room 5-170.

Host: Environmental Education Ontario (EEON)
