First Nations Repatriation Institute (FNRI) and Metropolitan State University Department of Social Work

are pleased to invite you to attend

A Transracial Adoptee Truth, Healing & Reconciliation Forum

HISTORY: The Truth, Healing, Reconciliation Forum model was developed by the founding members of the First Nations Orphan Association for First Nations adoptees/fostered individuals, their families and communities. This model addresses grief and loss caused by separation from family and culture.

WHO: For the first time at the March 26th Forum, FNRI facilitators will welcome all transracial adoptees/fostered individuals to share their stories and participate in a Forum.

WHY: This is an opportunity for adoptees to meet other adoptees and fosteres. It is also a unique opportunity for family members and professionals to hear first-hand how adoption and foster care impact our families and communities.

Date: Saturday, March 26, 2011

Time: 8:30 AM to 4:30 PM

Location: Metro State University
St. Paul Campus, New Main Building
