

APRIL 20, 2013

AUCTION

DINNER

DANCE

With this year being 2013, we begin the second hundred years of our existence of Blessed Sacrament Parish and School. We had so many events last year that made the celebration of our first one hundred years so special. We are in a culture that loves to look forward to new opportunities, new ways of approaching old problems, and feeling a new hope. Yet we are also a people that know that when we look back, it is more than just a sentimental journey. So we learned what great pioneers laid the foundation of our parish and school. We learned how ready they were to make this a thriving Catholic parish amidst so many challenges, like two World Wars, the Spanish Flu Pandemic of 1919, and the Great Depression. There were many opportunities also with de-segregation as well as constant new inventions of technology. And we realized that though the circumstances were different, our parish foremothers and forefathers were a lot like us. They went out of their way to support what was so central and foundational for their lives: faith, the community of believers, and a parish and school that was about making great Catholic citizens for this homeland and the homeland to come.

The opportunities and challenges are different now. The opportunities are thrilling. We have so much more information at our fingertips. Our children can learn ever more about different cultures and the wonders of technology and travel. We are all more conscious as Americans of being part of a larger world and the opportunity to exercise the right kind of leadership in it. Yet we also have the challenges to stay rooted in what is perennially true. We need to take stronger roles with our children to show them the true meaning of our faith and how to fight for what is right. We have so much more to do in healing our deepest relationships. It is sometimes said: As the family goes, so does the culture.

In the school, in particular, we continue our work on integrating faith, prayer, rigorous academics, the dignity of each person, the importance of family, and being of service to the needs of others.

So like the first parishioners, we turn with great trust to our God, the gift of our Catholic faith, and the gift of one another. We are not building the parish now with bricks and mortar, but building the parish from the deepest core. What an opportunity!

We come together tonight to celebrate and have fun. We also come together to help the parish and school prosper financially. The generosity of Blessed Sacrament Parishioners has been tremendous and remains a source of great vitality.

On behalf of the entire staff and faculty, we would like to thank the committee chairs, Lucy O'Shaughnessy and Arminda Menke, and all the members of the auction committees for all they have done to plan, organize, and execute the Big Event. What tremendous work!

May God continue to bless each of you and your families as we continue to grow in the faith, hope, and charity of Christ.

Reverend Christopher Hellstrom, Pastor

Mr. Gregory F. Kruthaupt, Principal
